Hundreds of poor miners in Northern Illinois are esting horses to save themselves from starvation, while their own class in Southern Illinois is competing with them ruinously at 85 cents per day. Death of Lieut-Governor Davis.

News reached here at 11:30 this morning that Lieut-Governor H nry Clay Davis had just dropped dead in his yard at Carson.

Deceased was born in Illinois somewhere about the year 1843, and grew to manhood in his native State, where some time after, he married a Miss Hopkins, and moved, with his wife, to Ottawa, Kunsas, where he was for a short time conductor on the Union Pasific Railroad. He left Kunsas and moved to Winnemucca, in this State, in the Fall of 1869, where he went to work for the Central Pacific Railroad in the capacity of passenger conductor. In this position he served the C. P. natil 1886, when he resigned to make the race for Lieutenant-Governor on the Republican ticket. The deceased defeated his Democratic opponent, J F. Bell, by a majority of 1.465, and was, on the 1st day of January, 1887, inaugurated Lieut-Governor.

Mr. Davis has been ailing for about a year past. He went to San Francisco last Winter for treatment, where he lay almost at the point of death for several weeks. He finally recovered and returned to Nevada, but his bealth failed him again soon after his return, and he has been confined to his room the greater part of the time since.

Mrs. Davis is now in Illinois, where she is visiting relatives.

By the death of Mr. Davis, Evan Williams, President pro tem of the Senate, will become Lieutenaut-Gover-

Their Own Fault.

Two hundred miners were discharged at Tuscarora a few days ago because the mines wouldn't pay at the present discount on silver. "Stick to me, boys, and I will stick to you, and in three mouths after Harrison is elected we will have silver up to par "yelled Senator Stewart at Tuscarora last Fall. The "boys" stuck to Stewart and to Hurrison and what is the result? Silver is lower than at any time since the passage of the Bland Act, and seven cents an ounce less than it was on the day of Harrison's election. Both of our Senators gave their personal assurance that Harrison was friendly to silver and favorable to free coinage. Did our worthy President lie to our Senators, or were our Senators "ro maneing" to the "boya?"-[Virginia Chronic'e.

A Dangerous Woman.

Seldom does there such a specimen of womanhood as Sarah-Althea Terry occupy so much public attention asshe, and only for the reason of her association with a deceased millionaire she might have lived out her life's span without being known more than the common herd of the California metroplis, but to-day she is both notorious and dangerous, and needs very close watching, or the chauces are that the Terry tragedy will be re-enacted with other individuels as the principal characters .-- Tribune.

Nevada Bullion Product.

The San Francisco Bulletin publishes the following:

Nevada was first known as a bullion producer in 1859. The yield that year was $100,000, mainly from gulch mining. The Ophir mine was loca ed June 29, 1859, and furnished very rich ore at the start. From the best informasion at hand the yield of the mines in Nevada to the close of 1888 were as follows:

Gold. Bilver. 1859-70....$34,050,000 $91,350,000 1871-75 ... 43,780,000 115,0:0,000 1876-80 58,815,451 104,820,099 1881 85 18,354,000 31,069,000 1886..... 3,050,000 5,000,000 1887..... 2 537,851 5,707,277 1888 3,523,185 8,241,815

Total.....$159,150,487 $361,188,092 $520,388,579 Those who have been disposed to regard Nevada as a silver State will do well to look at the amount of its gold product, which is over 30 per cent. of its gross yield, though always conseded to be only a by-product. It is estimated that of the $520,000,000 credited to that State, $326,804,600 has come out of the Comstock lode. Most of the bullion from that section earries from 40 to 45 cents in gold. The Eureka District began to produce as early as 1864, though not to any considerable extent until 1869. Its yield to the close of 1888, embraced, of course, in the above total, was $57,558,459, of which $10,070,000 was lead and the re_ mainder gold and silver.

An Exciting Scene.

An Italian toy ba loon vender at a picuio near Chicago accidently let go of a string which held a number of the buoyant globes. The string got twisted about the left arm of scphis Schwab, a two-year-old child, and took her heavenward. The balloons swept close to a large oak tree, a branch of which the child caught and checked her flight. Her strength gave way, however, and the balloons drifted out over the lake taking the child along. One Koch, a sharp-shooter, who was attending the picuic, took his repeating rifl-, jumped into a skiff and rowed into range of the balloons, several of which he pierced with a bullet causing them to descend with their precious burden. A boat was at the spot and little Sophie was taken aboard without even getting her feet wet.

A Button Romance.

He was about to say adien, was thinking of some word to flatter, when from his overcoat there flew a button, with a dismal elatter. He blushed, but she, with woman's tact, as if she saw a good joke in it, cried laughingly. "There now, I'll act your tailor's part for just a minute. He doffed his coat and watched ber thread the meedle, with her head low. "Now do you know," he softly said, "I have an awful lot of mending? "A bachelor, we'll say, like me, is at the mercy of his tailor and then there's something else you see, (at this he turued a trifle paler), "My heart needs mending much, I fear, do you suppose that you could do it? "Well, I don't know," she mused, but, dear I'll give my whole attention to it."
